THE SILLY PIQUA STORY

Not the Genuine Article

PROVEN TO BE A BOOMERANG.

The Truth about the Matter, which the Register will not be Fair Enough to Publish-Not an Atom of Foreign Metal in the Product-It is the Best Quality of Roofing Tin-The Foreman of the Mill makes Affidavit. The Story that it was not True Started by a Democratic Saloon-keeper Who Doesn't Know how Terne Tin is Made.

The Register of yesterday reprinted from an Ohio paper the silly story which was started on its rounds several days ago to the effect that the terne tin plate manufactured at Piqua, Ohio, was not genuine, and that it was simply an iron shoet dipped in a lead bath. publication of this story by the Register a day after every reputable paper in Ohio had published a correction of it, backed up by affidavits, is only another evidence of the unfairness of that paper in its discussions of the effects of the McKinley bill, and its slowness to acknowledge, even in the face of indisputable evidence, that tin plate is being made in America. Not only this, but made in America. Not only this, out the Register comments on the statement made by the saloon-keeper Keifer, of Piqua, Ohio, who originated the story, exhibit its total ignorance of the pro-cess of the manufacture of roofing tin. The real facts about the Piqua story, which has proven a veritable boomerang, appear in the dispatch from Piqua appear in the dispatch from Piqua given below, but first, in order that the reader may thoroughly understand the Register's "lead-bath" story, it may be well to explain what terne tin plate is and its process of manufacture. HGW IT IS MADE.

All roofers and tinners understand the distinction between terne tin plate and the tin plate known as "bright" tin the tin plate known as "bright" tin plate, from which household utensils are made. Terne tin plate is a thin sheet of steel or iron coated with an alloy of lead and tin, usually in a proportion of two of lead to one of tin. The plate is not polished.

Terne tin is used for roofing. The lead is mixed with the tin in order to resist the water and the atmospheric influence. All roofing tin is terne tin. The process of the manufacture of "bright" tin is substantially the same as that of terne tin, except that the sheet is dipped in a bath of pure tin and is then submitted to a high degree of polishing. Until the McKinley bill went into effect, practically all terne tin, as all "bright" tin, was imported from Great Britain. But now a great deal of both kinds of tin is being manufactured in this country.

THE PIQUA STORY.

Now as to the facts about the Piqua story, which the Register printed. Here they are backed by sworn statement:

they are backed by sworn statement:

The Cincinnati Corrugating company at Piqua announced a short time ago that they would make terne tin plate from American metal. At the McKinley demonstration last Thursday 5,000 tin badges made from terne tin plate, manufactured by the concern, were worn, and the next morning McKinley personally dipped a half dozen sheets of steel in the bath of lead and tin, thus making terne tin plate.

Before it was put into the pot some of the California pig-tin was exhibited in a store window at Piqua.

That terne tin plate was actually of the California pig-tin was exhibited in a store window at Piqua.

That terne tin plate was actually made here was never questioned except by two or three Democrats. The process of manufacture has been witnested by scores of citizens in Piqua, and hundreds of the terne tin plates manufactured at the Piqua mills were exposed to public view at the McKinley demonstration, and were carried away by the crowd as souvenirs.

On the day of the McKinley demonstration, a Democrat named Stein-Erger-tried "a game of bluff." He gave an order for a bill of roofing tin plate with which to cover his bern, he stipulating that the plate should be made purely of American material and that the price should not exceed that of the foreign article. The order was promptly accepted. Mr. Steinberger has been chalfed a great deal, even by his Democratic fellow citizens, for having fallen into a trap, but until the Enquirer publication of yesterday there was no suspicion on anybody's part in Piqua that the genuineness of the terne plate was questioned. The correspondent of the Enquirer asserts that the terne tin plate, as manufactured by part in Piqua that the genuineness of the terne plate was questioned. The correspondent of the Enquirer asserts that the terne tin plate, as manufactured by the Cincinnati Corrugating Company at Piqua, was nothing but a sheet of iron dipped in lead, and gives the detail that Captain Leopold Keifer, the saloon-keeper referred to above, loaned the lead used for the bath.

The correspondent declares that the Piqua firm has no pig tin, either Welsh or American. Both yesterday and to-day the Enquirer backs up editorially the wild assertions of its correspondent. It makes the extraordinary statement that steel plate cannot be manufactured in this country of a character suitable for tin plate, and it goes so far as to say that the terne tin plate manufactured at Piqua is nothing but corrugated iron dipped in lead. The Enquirer articles, both of its correspondent and the editorials, clearly demonstrate that the writers are in dense ignorance of the subject upon which they assume to give inforials, clearly demonstrate that the writers are in dense ignorance of the subject upon which they assume to give information. Anybody can find out by consulting Worcester's Dictionary, Webster's Dictionary, the American Mecanical Dictionary, the Encyclopedia Britannica, or Chambers' Encyclopedia, that lead is mixed with pig tin to form the coating for the sheets in manufacture of terne tin plate, and all roofers and tinners know this.

It is preposterous to claim that the of terne tin plate, and all roofers and tinners know this.

It is preposterous to claim that the Gincinnati Corrugating Company have been guilty of a fraud in this matter. The McKinley badges that were worn at the demonstration were sewn on silk streamers, upon which the following was printed: "Pure American terno plate, made from steel sheets rolled by the Piqua Rolling Mill, September, 1891. Coated with California tin and Missouri lead by the Cincinnati Corrugating Company, Piqua, September 14, 1891. Not an atom of foreign metal is in this plate." In his speech last Thursday night McKinley specifically stated the ingredients of which the terne plate was made. The newspapers, both before and after the demonstration, mentioned that lead and tin were used in coating the sheet steel. The Enquirer asserts that no tin was used as is used in Wales—probably even a little more.

Your correspondent may say that be himself personally with the save plates in the pot. He has a specimen plate in his possession, with the autograph of Major McKinley scratched on by a sharp steel point. ity in this country on tin plate roofing and cornice work, is the Metal Worker, published at New York and Chicago. In its current issue, dated September 19, 1891, is the following editorial, headed: "OHO TIN PLATES."

"It has been known for some time that the Cincinnati Corrugating Company, whose plant is at Piqua, O., was making practical efforts toward the establishment of a tin plate works, and the earliest result of this effort is a very handsome lot of tin plates that the company has produced within the past ten days. A sample of the lot which has been forwarded for our inspection shows it to be a high grade of roofing plate, of smooth and even finish, with no uncoated spots to prophesy rust.

Poisons the Girl He Loves.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 25 .- Ernest Lehman, the rejected lover of Emma Buch poisoned her last night with Paris poisoned her last night with Paris green. The lovers had quarreled recently. Lehman called at the girl's house last night and tried to make advances, which were rejected. He then offered to treat the girl to soda water before parting forever, and went and procured several bottles of soda water. Miss Buch drank a glass and was seized with convulsions, dying in great agony.

Watch-makers Reduced.
Boston, Mass., Sept. 24—The American Waltham Watch Company has just aunounced a reduction in the wages of between 800 and 900 of its employes—about one-third of its entire force—or all those employed on its 18-size movements. The cut ranges from 15 to 20 per cent, according to the character of the work done, and went into effect last Monday.

Unnecessary Suffering.

There is little doubt but that many persons suffer for years with allments that could easily be cured by the use of some simple remedy. The following incident is an illustration of this fact: My wife was troubled with pain in her side the greater part of the time for three years, until cured by Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It has, I think, permanently cured her. We also have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy whenever needed and believe it to be the best in the world. P. M. Boston, Pennville, Sullivan county, Missouri.

Interesting Items About the State University-Improvements in the Town-Per-

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 25 .-Lieut. Ramsey, of the Ninth infantry, who has been detailed to act as commandant of cadets at the university, has arrived, and is now arranging for the work of the year. He fills the vacancy made by Lieut. E. S. Avis who has served three years here, and, according to the regulations of the War Department, has been ordered to rejoin his company at Fort Clark, Texas. Lieut. Avis leaves the corps in good condition. He instituted several new features while he was here, and applied himself very diligently to the work of instruction. Lieut. Ramsey is industriously engaged in making out his plans for the work. He says that, although the time during which the cadets are actually under his control is short and his work will be limited, yet he expects to do well what he commences. He will relieve the senior captain, who has been acting as commandant, on next Monday.

The Athenaeum, the college paper, edited by students of the University, made its first appearance this week. Several new features have been introduced, and under the present management it promises to surpuss the issues Lieut. Ramsey, of the Ninth infantry, duced, and under the present manage-ment it promises to surpass the issues of any former year.

The classes of the geological department have commenced practical work and are now making sections of the different elevations around Morgantown. A class in physical geography has been organized by Mr. Brown, and this is also doing practical work. Some original problems have been proposed, upon which the classes will work during the year.

The new science hall project is now assuming a more definite shape. An architect from Baltimore is now preparing plans for the building, and these will be submitted for approval at a meeting of the Board of Regents, which will be held some time in October. It is proposed to build a handsome building which will cost $40,000. It will probably be located just opposite preparatory hall. Professor Emory, of the mechanical department, has drawn plans for a building which, when completed, will be used for the work of his department. The contract has already been let and it his expected that the building be completed ready for use by Christmas vacation. The work on the new commencement hall is at a standstill. It is reported that the building has been condemned as being too weak

Scrofulous .Humor - A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bod years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and hapke considerations are the form peared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well.

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of tho time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so im pressed with the success of this modification that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I centinued to take Hood's Earsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg.
